

Buried Treasures - Spectacular Hoards of Late Roman Silver

Eleven 7th century leaping animal silver spoons from the Lambousa Treasure, British Museum

A close up of the bowl of the 7th century spoon with a Ram (Lambousa Treasure, British Museum)

Four tyches, two furniture ornaments, the Projecta casket, the muse casket and fluted plate, all part of the 4th century Esquiline Treasure, British Museum

The Muse casket, 4th century, silver, part of the Esquiline Treasure, British Museum

Four Tyches (4 personifications of late Antique cities Rome, Constantinople, Antioch & Alexandria), 4th century, gilded silver
& two Furniture ornaments, 4th century, gilded silver, all objects from the Esquiline Treasure, British Museum

The Projecta casket (4th century silver with gilding, part of the Esquiline Treasure, British Museum) held by Professor Liz James

The Mildenhall Great Dish, 4th century, (diameter 60.5cm, weight 8.3kg), part of the Mildenhall Treasure, British Museum

Photographs taken at the British Museum by Simon Lane and Helen Rufus-Ward